INT. CLASSROOM - DAY

A teacher is giving a lesson when a fire breaks out in the neighboring room.

TEACHER

Alright class, take out a sheet of paper and then begin on tonight's homework pages 315 through...

A fire alarm sounds.

TEACHER (CONT'D)

Ok everyone, fire drill. Line up by the door in alphabetical order and let's exit the building quickly and quietly.

JESSICA

But Miss, I smell smoke.

KYLE

Holy cow, look! The other class is on fire!

TEACHER

The sooner you guys quiet down and get in order, the sooner we get to leave and finish the drill. Now, let's see here. Adams, Brown, Cain, Cauldwell. Cauldwell? Demetrius you are out of order. Everyone have a seat, we're not leaving till we get it right.

But the flames are coming through the wall!

TEACHER

Do you want a referral for disobeying me?

KYLE

What if my desk is currently engulfed in a fiery inferno.

TEACHER

Then I'd say good for you Chris. Cause inferno is one of our vocabulary words. Everyone, be like Chris. Now let's try this again, line up.

Big fire sounds.

KYLE

I don't think this is safe anymore.

JESSICA

Yeah, my backpack is melting to my calves.

TEACHER

Well maybe it wouldn't be if you were in your correct place in line. Where's David?

JESSICA

Part of the ceiling fell on him. (Beat) I don't think he is breathing. (Crying)

TEACHER

Great, now I have to write a clinic pass. Everyone back to your seats. Thank David for holding us up. (Beat) Hold on, Kyle is your phone out?

KYLE

I'm calling my mom to say goodbye.

TEACHER

Well Kyle, you just earned a trip to see the principal, go there now.

KYLE

Really? I'm saved! Oh thank you Jesus.

ALL KIDS

We have our phones out too. Me too. And me. (Faint) bitch.

TEACHER

Hey hey hey! That does it, everyone is going to the principal's office. Get out of here now. All of you, out!

The kids are heard running out. The fire sounds pick up and are constant.

(Sigh) Unbelievable the ignorance and complete disrespect shown by this generatahhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh.

Fire sounds as room is engulfed.
